These reductions were due in large part to medical advances and public health successes from the previous decades. The law dealt with all types of individuals and businesses. Or, if the President did not want to fund a project passed by Congress in the budget, he could in effect veto it by instructing the Treasury not to release the money.

On the other hand, according to economist Robert Higgs, when looking only at Also hard hit was the manufacturing of durable goods like automobiles and appliances, whose purchase could be postponed. They had found a congressman who cared, Representative Wright Patman from Texas. Franklin D. That has changed. Meanwhile industry struggled along, unable to close the gap between what to produce and what consumers were willing or able to buy.
