Fragonard was a product of the later Rococo era, a time characterized by hedonistic freedom and a pursuit of all things aesthetically pleasing. Year created: c. 1768. Boucher specialized in the combination of the pastoral scene with a passionate scene. At the base of the seesaw are the remnants of a picnic, including a wine bottle that has toppled. The contrast between light and shadow adds to the feeling that something illicit is taking place. In the background of the composition one can see what was originally going to be the Bishop's mistress by the perverse Baron, but which was changed to the mistress's husband by Fragonard.
